WHICH BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The day's speculation over President Wilson's statement repudiating "dollar diplomacy" in connection with China has presented particularly interesting features. Among the questions raised are:

The possible policy of the Wilson administration with respect to banking and other financial matters in South America?

The policy with respect to recognizing formally the republic of China?

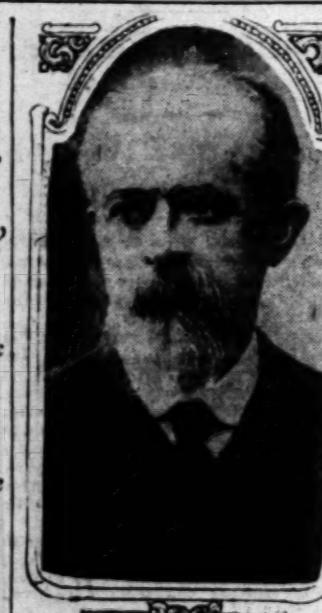

The possible effect on American trade, which has reached a record high point, of the new policy, and which is particularly important to southern manufacturing the cheaper side of cotton cloth?

The question it readily will be asked, not only of the political side, but of the economic side, of the country to statesmen, but broad issues that are of great importance to the business world, outside the banking institutions.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A prediction that continued depreciation of American railroad securities may result in war with other countries was made tonight by George C. Ladd, president of the Chicago and Alton Railroad, in an address at the annual dinner of the American Railway Engineering Association.

Mr. Worthington pointed out that relentless wars have been waged because of conditions that affect national wealth and national welfare.

"No individual," he said, "has ever knowingly sought to destroy a source of his income, but will fight, and fight to the death, to preserve it. Nations are merely groups of individuals, more or less collective and responsive to these same conditions, and as long as foreign capital invested in American railroads yields just and satisfactory returns to the strong financial institutions of Europe, their dogs of war will ever remain chained up at home. American railroad securities will be our national security—not the magnates they seem to be today—and the international peace conference at The Hague will be merely a waste of effort so far as America is concerned."

Double Quick.
YAQUIS RUSHED
AGAINST OJEDA.Part of Federal Forces in Uncle Sam's Custody.Caranza Demands Surrender of Monterey City.More American Cruisers Sent to Mexican Coast.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) NOGALAS (Ariz.) March 19.—Six hundred picked Yaqui braves, with four machine guns and two field pieces, departed today on a special train, bound in the direction of Naco, where Ojeda is located with the only remaining Federal force in Northern Sonora.

Gen. Obregon, commander of all the Mexican State forces, is expected to follow and take personal command against Ojeda.

American refugees continue to arrive here by hand-car and train from the vicinity of Nogales, on the California gulf, where Federal forces are mobilizing. Arrivals tonight reported activity of Mexican gunboats up and down the gulf coast.

Actions from Naco indicate that Ojeda's original force of some 400 men has been greatly depleted by defections to the American side.

FEDERALES AT EMPALME.

One thousand Federales are entrenched at Empalme opposite Guaymas, while State troops are mobilizing in strong forces at Orizaba, a few miles to the north. The refugees report, refugees arriving here to-day.

CRUISER STAYS AT GUAYMAS.

The United States cruiser Colorado remains at Guaymas Harbor, its commander having forbidden it to sail, and a bonfire is burning on the beach where a large American colony is located. The State troops at Orizaba have no artillery suited for bombardment.

All is reported as quiet at Hermosillo, the capital of the insurgent State.

OJEDA IN SERIOUS PLEIGHT.

More than Two Hundred of His Men Are Held by American Troops at Naco.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) NACO (Ariz.) March 19.—Ojeda's Federales, trapped by State troops and unable to make destruction of the railways to the south, thus preventing the arrival of Cabral's group of State troops, Ojeda's plight proved still more serious today when it was made known that 216 of his men are now held as prisoners.

Ojeda had less than 500 men when he defeated the State troops last week.

Antonio Rojas, the former Orozco general, is reported with 400 men near Culiacan, and within sight of this point.

His position in the revolt is doubtful, and, resenting his intrusion from Chihuahua, State troops are on the way to drive him back.

REBELS DEMAND MONTEREY.

Mayor and Many Police of City Thrown Into Jail Accused of Treachery by Federals.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) MONTEREY (Mex.) March 19.—A large force of rebels under Venustiano Carranza, the rebellious Governor of Coahuila, have demanded the surrender of Monterey before midnight. The demand was sent from Villa Garcia.

Fifteen hundred Federals, commanded by Gen. Truzy Aubert, have been rushed from Villalobos to reinforce the garrison.

Shortly after Gen. Aubert left Villalobos, the place was reoccupied by the rebels.

Many bridges have been burned and wire cut and all trains scheduled to leave Monterey have suspended operations indefinitely.

All the streets in Monterey are being fortified and great numbers of police were placed under arrest last night. Mayor Zambrano was taken into custody on the charge that he had promised to surrender the city to the Carranza forces. Gen. Truzy Aubert, federal commander here, Gen. Lopez, who has Zambrano in custody, to pardon the Mayor, but Lopez refused to do so.

TWO MORE CRUISERS SENT.

California and Maryland Ordered to Proceed from San Francisco to West Coast of Mexico.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) WASHINGTON, March 19.—At the instance of Adm. Southland, commanding the Asiatic fleet, who has been detached from Guaymas conditions on the west coast of Mexico, the Navy Department has approved his recommendation that the cruisers California and Maryland be sent to that coast. They are now at San Francisco.

Admiral Southland, who is aboard the flagship Colorado, found that a number of American citizens who have been disturbed by the revolutionary troubles in Sonora are drifting down to the coast town, especially Guaymas. For this reason, the presence of warships is desired.

Lower California is reported tranquil today, the new Governor, Brig. Gen. Miguel Gomez, having arrived Monday at Ensenada and assumed office.

Telegraphic communication has been re-established between Monterey and the United States via Laredo.

SINALOA REPORTED LOYAL.

OFFICIAL DENIAL OF REVOLT.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) CULIACAN (Sinaloa, Mex.) March 19.—Official denial that Sinaloa state has revolted against the new national administration was given here today in a signed announcement by Gov. Huerta. He also issued a proclamation urging all citizens to remain loyal to the Huerta government, unheeding the Governor's said, "the suicidal advice of political agitators."

PORFIRIO DIAZ IN ROME.

(By Atlantic Cable and by Federal (Wireless) Line Overland to The Times)

ROME, March 19.—[Special Dispatch.] General Porfirio Diaz, former President of Mexico, arrived here last evening and is occupying the apartments at the Hotel Bristol, which were those of Cardinal Fergie when he came here to receive the red hat.

Be Continued.Chief of Signal Service Praises
Results.Perfect Machine Announced by Great Britain.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) WASHINGTON, March 19.—Brig. Gen. George P. Scriven, chief of the United States Signal Corps, expressed satisfaction today over reports on aviation experiments being conducted by army officers at San Diego, Cal., and Galveston, Tex., and ordered two more experiments to be made at each place to receive instructions from flying Lieuts. Walter R. Taliaferro and Fred Seydel will go to Galveston and Lieuts. Rex Chandler and Joseph E. Carberry to San Diego.

The chief signal officer said that all officers detailed to San Diego, Lodi, Park, San Leandro, Golden and Breerton—had "developed into expert aviators in a comparatively short time." They have received licenses from the Aero Club of America and have qualified for military license.

Work at the San Diego camp, it was said, would continue without interruption throughout the summer. Reports on three flights made from Galveston to Houston and back—a distance of ninety miles—in an eight-mile hour, the aviator in each instance being accompanied by a passenger, satisfied Gen. Scriven that exceptional opportunities for experiments were offered along the border.

JOHN BULL'S NEW MACHINE.

British Secretary of War Declares Type Secretly Perfected Is Superior to All Others.

(By CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES) LONDON, March 19.—The British army possesses the best aeroplane in the world and has secretly perfected a type of flying machine far superior to any of the invention of other nations. This announcement was made today in the House of Commons by Col. John Seely, Secretary of State for War. It caused a great sensation among the members.

"The secret," said Col. Seely yesterday, "the great problem has been to attain an aeroplane that can fly at both low and high speed. The army now has machines which have been Wrights' machines and which were able to reduce their speed to forty miles. An army biplane has passed all the tests at an average speed of ninety-one and one-half miles an hour."

The machine shall have 148 aeroplanes next May. We will deliberately reject large airships as being useless for war purposes. The War Department is devoting some attention, however, to small dirigibles, which can be packed up and sent abroad with expeditionary forces.

The Chamber of Deputies will be summoned tomorrow to take the oath of fealty to the new King after which the Ministry will resign.

SCOFF AT BRITISH AIRMEN.

American Officers Award Palm to French and Point at New Aeroplane Invented by Uncle Sam.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) WASHINGTON, March 19.—The British experts are shocked to learn that the British army has evolved a flying machine superior to any in the possession of other nations, an announced in the House of Commons by Col. John Seely, British Secretary of State for War.

Capt. W. Irving Chambers of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department, was inclined to accord highest aeroplane honors to the French machine.

"Recent improvements in the Dunne machine (British)," said Capt. Chambers, "show that it possesses a remarkable degree of inherent stability. It is the first machine to attain the French machine of M. Driewitz with tandem planes is superior to both stability and efficiency."

Officers of the Signal Corps of the British army have made many revolutionary discoveries. Incidentally, it was pointed out that United States army experts have just perfected a new radio-aeroplane device.

Latest Dirigible Breaks in Two in Heavy Wind When She Attempts to Land.

(By CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES) KARLSRUHE (Germany) March 19.—Two months after her trial flight, the German military dirigible of the Zeppelin type known as "Substitute Z. L." was wrecked while attempting a landing after a twenty-four hours' flight. The start was made from Oos, a village of Baden, where the balloon was inflated.

The flight intended to return to Oos but finally decided, because of the gusty wind, which reached a velocity of forty-five miles, to anchor.

"The dirigible, which had been anchored when a terrific gust buckled the forward half of the dirigible, another gust lifted the airship, and the whole structure collapsed, the nose being lost.

The "Substitute Z. L." made a trial flight on January 16 and on two occasions afterwards made very satisfactory landings while attempting to anchor.

The "Substitute Z. L." was anchored when a terrific gust buckled the forward half of the dirigible, another gust lifted the airship, and the whole structure collapsed, the nose being lost.

Frank Pustella and his brother-in-law, Joseph Cavelleri, escaped with severe burns by jumping from a second-story window, but their two daughters, aged 3 and 5 years, were overcome by smoke as they reached a window and perished in the flames.

The house gained its name because of the fatalities which have occurred within its walls during the ten years.

A decade ago Jacob Werner committed a great market in the place. Within a short time his entire family died and Werner committed suicide. Werner's clerk, Fred Kunk, took the market, but shortly after his little daughter was found dead in the kitchen. A week later Kunk was found dead under mysterious circumstances.

The next tenant, named Strauss, was murdered. A few weeks after that an Italian crawled under the porch and committed suicide.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Hanging out the wash appears to be a dangerous occupation in San Francisco. Yesterday a woman was jerked off her perch by a falling clothesline and killed by the fall. Today, Rosie Cozze, aged 12, reached out from an apartment balcony to hang a garment on a line, and, losing her balance, fell three stories. Her skull was fractured and she is expected to die.

(By A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) ALBANY (N. Y.) March 19.—The report of the State Labor Department on its investigation of conditions among the Little Falls textile workers—brought to public attention by the recent strike—was made public today.

"Certainly it is a matter of grave public concern," the report says, "when a considerable body of wage earners are found living in such conditions as are revealed by this report. There is reason to suppose that more or less similar conditions are to be found elsewhere."

The investigators state that prior to the strike, half of the men workers received a weekly wage of $9 or less, while half of the women received less than $7.50.

"The settlement of the strike," the report adds, "made but little, if any, change in conditions as to wages." Monthly rents for the space occupied by a single family or group, run from $6 to $14.

"The living conditions, the report says:

"The houses are frame structures, built singly or in groups. Bathrooms are entirely absent, leaky roofs are common, rooms impossible. Ventilation always a bad. Cellars were often filled with water, ashes, waste, garbage and manure. Sleeping rooms are small, especially when the number of occupants which they accommodate is considered. Some are windowless.

BY CARL AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.] ATHENS, March 19.—Prominent Venetians, on announcing the death of King George to the Chamber of Deputies today, eulogized His Majesty's services to his country during his long reign and referred in laudatory terms to his successor, King Constantine.

When the Premier asked the chamber to acclaim Constantine the new King, the deputies responded with cheering and the people in the galleries joined in the ovation.

The leaders of the parliament, opposition afterward paid tribute to the late King, one deputy describing him as "that national martyr who has given his life in the cause of the interests of the nation."

The Chamber of Deputies determined to go into mourning for months and a proposal to erect a national monument in honor of the dead King was voted by acclamation.

A FILIAL TRIBUTE.

From the fortress of Janina, where King Constantine, recently captured from the Turks, has addressed his final message to the Greek army today, it was as follows:

"The outrage on the sacred person of King George deprives us of our beloved monarch, a man of very tried and heroic qualities, who by his providence succeeded me in the throne. I am grieved to think of my to-be-forgotten father on the throne over which he has so long presided in honor and honor."

"I bring this news to the knowledge of my army, to which I have devoted my whole life, and to which my successful and successful wars have indissolubly bound me. I declare to that marching always at its head, I will never cease to concentrate my efforts to avenge the wrongs of our country for whose glorious exploits have brought renown to our fatherland."

The Council of Ministers issued in official statement early today upon the assassination of King George yesterday. It read:

"We are overwhelmed with grief. The Council of Ministers announces to the people the death of His Beloved Majesty, King George, at the hands of criminals. A mad man assassinated the King at Skotina. The nation, thrown into deep mourning, is these days of rejoicing at the accomplishment of our national desire."

The outrage was committed at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while His Majesty was out walking, the Council hastened to communicate the sad news at once to His Majesty, King Constantine."

Over the contract, under the terms of which the General Petroleum Company is to haul the Santa Fe's oil over the Tehachapi Mountains through the Petroleum company's pipe line. The pipe line is to be completed by Capt. Korn fields to Los Angeles, and the extension from Los Angeles to Mojave is expected to be completed within a brief period.

This afternoon De Sable confirmed the arrangement, pointing in reference to the arrangements between the Santa Fe and the Petroleum company being under way.

The contracts are not definitely closed, said De Sable, "but our negotiations are practically closed. At present I cannot say anything in reference to a possible similar contract with the Southern Pacific. MRS. POPE IS INDICTED.

DETROIT Woman to Be Brought Back to San Francisco as Accessory to Burglar Conn.

BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.] SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Mrs. Catherine Pope, alias "Kitty," under arrest in Detroit in connection with the operations of Owen D. Conn, the hundred-thousand-dollar burglar, was indicted in San Francisco yesterday night by the grand jury. A detective started for Detroit today with requisition papers for her return.

The grand jury heard eleven witnesses, including residents whose homes had been looted and pawn brokers with whom the jewelry had been placed.

The indictment also was returned last night against Rupert F. Hooper, former head of the trust department of the Mercantile Trust Company of this city, charging embezzlement. Hooper's estimated loss to the bank is said to total over $14,000.

A telegram received from the Detroit police today said that Mrs. Pope had announced she would fight extradition to San Francisco.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A giant negro, declared to be mad, was surrounded and captured by a posse of police late this afternoon after he had kept the entire beach district in terror for six hours.

The negro, armed with a butcher knife, pursued men, women, and children on sight, clearing the streets and the beach and defying the police.

Mrs. Hitchcock's husband in Salt Lake, it is known, does not like what has been done to him.

He had been in the possession of Mrs. Hitchcock since the young girl was brought back from San Francisco.

There has been too much commotion, and the girl has been taken to a hospital.

The negro, it is said, is a son of the man who was taken to the Juvenile Detention Home.

BOY'S LONG VIGIL.

The mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Hitchcock was revealed last night after 7-year-old Harold Hitchcock, his brother, twenty-four-year-old son of his infant son, Robert.

Throughout the long hours of Monday night and all day yesterday the youngest sat beside the crib of his sister in the deserted room at the Argonaut Hotel.

The boy, who had been left alone with his mother, had brought into the room Monday evening just before she left.

When the boy and his baby sister were found in the middle of the hotel they were in a pitiful condition from lack of food and sleep.

The boy was so weak that he was scarcely able to tell of the mysterious absence of his mother.

Mrs. Hitchcock's husband in Salt Lake, has been notified and advice from him is expected hourly by the police.

STOP OFF AT OGDEN.

On her way to this city from Salt Lake, Mrs. Hitchcock stopped a few days at Ogden. From there she went direct to Richmond with her children. After a brief stay there, she and her family came to San Francisco, registering at the Argonaut Hotel.

Monday evening Mrs. Hitchcock left the apartment and returned a few minutes later, bring back a bottle of milk and a bag of doughnuts.

She kissed the son and baby good-bye and told them that she was going shopping for half an hour or so and would be back early.

It is believed that either Harold Hitchcock or his baby sister saw off their mother.

Several times during the night the baby awakened and cried. Harold urged the nurse to drink from a nursing bottle, but the milk was cold and the baby refused nourishment.

Then Harold sang his sister to sleep and resumed his watch.

WATCHES SISTER ALL DAY.

Morning came but still Mrs. Hitchcock did not return. All that day she remained in the room, lost some harm come to the baby in the absence of their mother.

In a hazy way Harold remembers that his mother disappeared once before.

When this occurred he does not know. He fails to recall more details.

Detectives have been detailed to the house to care for the baby in the absence of their mother.

It is believed that the baby was taken to a hospital for care.

The description, as far as it is known, was that it was a boy.

It was dispatched to every outlying police station, to every hospital and every rooming-house in San Francisco.

RE-INDICT BANK EMPLOYER.

New Bill to Be Brought Against San Francisco Man Charged With Embezzlement.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—The arraignment of Charles F. Baker, former bank officer who confessed a shortage account estimated at nearly $200,000, was postponed today until next Wednesday because of Baker's illness.

William Joseph Dowden, who as in the case of Baker, was a former employee of the Crocker National Bank of this city, is to be re-indicted by the Federal grand jury, according to an arrangement by the United States District Attorney's office. Dowden was secretly indicted in January, 1910, on two counts for embezzlements estimated at $120,000. On those two indictments the statute of limitations has expired.

Dowden, who held the position of collections teller of the Crocker Bank, has been a fugitive from justice since January, 1910. He had been a familiar figure in San Francisco's night life. His downfall was attributed to heavy plums on horses at the old Emeryville track.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—President Wilson will confer frequently with the members of the House and Senate in the President's room at the Capitol at the extra session of Congress. This was announced by the White House late today.

The President intends to himself as accessible as possible to members of Congress on those subjects which he is in active charge of. The third legislation which he has reached is most important.

The President will go to the Capitol in a spirit of friendly co-operation with the Democratic members of Congress.

In a word, Mr. Wilson is the party leader. He believes that he should go to the Capitol.

The action of the tariff was observed by the whole world.

The President has said that he will make every effort to have the people with the carrying out of party pledges. Mr. Wilson believes the tariff bill should be a party measure.

PARTY DISCIPLINE.
The announcement today that the Finance Committee of the Senate and the Ways and Means Committee of the House would work in joint conference, was in line with the President's often, was in line with his idea that the Democratic leaders in Congress should draft a tariff which would stand or fall as a unit, both in Congress and in the country. He believes in strong party discipline and the leaders have approved the tariff bill.

It was announced last night. The bridal couple will sail for Europe the day after the wedding.TWO BIG JOBS AWARDED.
It is now known that W. J. Bryan, chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Georgia, probably would be chosen Director of the Census. It also was stated authoritatively that the nomination of Col. P. Neill, to be Commissioner of Education, would be sent to the Senate again when Congress convenes April 7.RESERVATION.
Mr. Wilson was congratulated by many on his election to the presidency by a committee of the American Philosophical Society of which he is the eighth member to become Chief Executive of the nation.

The President also received a communication from the National Conservation Congress, which told him he wanted to dispel any impression that the organization was not in line with the national Progressive party or other progressive party. They declared their wish was for the use and development of the country's natural resources, and that they applied his principle that "reservoirs is conservation."

the Franco-German war, and a former Governor of Algeria.

In striking contrast with the generally accepted principle that criminals can best be kept under surveillance and apprehended by secret methods, Lepine went on the theory that publicity in getting them done was an essential factor. Indeed, he professed contempt for the popular idea of a sleuth and acted accordingly.

WAS WITHOUT FEAR.

He was without fear in the performance of his duties as a hard worker, and confessed to a particular liking for carrying the usual dry facts contained in police reports.

He knew the character of his countrymen thoroughly and whenever mobs in Paris, excited by political or other causes, and reinforced by anarchist demonstrators, engaged in pitched battles against the police, M. Lepine was in the forefront with his men—a picturesque little figure in citizen's dress with his gray goatee, and an umbrella—his only means of defense. Several times he escaped death by a narrow margin but such is the Gallic temperament that he was a hero with the very classes who opposed him and order.

DEATH OF A WISE KING.
(New York Herald, March 19.) In the death of King George I, every Greek feels he has lost a father and friend.

Between him and his people there has been a mutual love that closely resembled the ideal. The welfare of his people was his first thought; he was a Hellene, a Greek, an Athenian.

That he should be shot down in Salonia, that city which represents the greatest of the triumphs of Modern Greece and by a madman of his own people, adds to the pathos of his life's ending.

The old world has yielded many of its political conceptions to American influences, but it remained for a Chicago architect, Walter Burley Griffin, to wrest architectural leadership from the old world. Griffin's design for the new capital of Australia, which he submitted for the prize of $7500 for the best plan for the new capital city of Australia. It is significant in more ways than one, that the plan for the new capital of Australia, which is to be built on two hills on either side of the Molonglo River, follows closely upon the design of Washington.

END OF DOLLAR DIPLOMACY.
OPEN WITHOUT BATONETS.
(New York World, March 19.) The Wilson administration's deliverance respecting this country's part in the six powers' loan to China, is a state paper of the first importance.

The new government at Washington is for the open door, but not one forced open by the Jimmy of guns and landing parties in support of private interests. It is for the largest and most intimate trade relations with China, but as won naturally and not artificially.

It is not to be a government by and for special privileges at home, it will be a government for the people.

CONDEMNS BILL FOR LIABILITY.

WORKERS OFFER SUBSTITUTE FOR UNION MISFIT.

Proposed Law Would Work Great Hardship on Industries Say Men We Met to Protest Against Unjust Provisions—Cunning Hand Writer Boxes Revealed.

is a meeting of employers in the Chamber of Commerce last night, the administration's proposed "liability bill" was condemned as an unjustified attack on labor unions to loot State treasury, override the workers' difficulties, we have preached the doctrine of arbitration for the settlement of industrial difficulties, as well as international difficulties, and I am glad to say that in the many conferences I have had with the unions and their leaders, I have been met with sympathy and deep appreciation of our work."

Dr. Carter stated that in the ten years of the Hague tribunal 108 peace pacts had been made, and twelve of them had been ratified by the Boynton bill and in the various clauses based on the old rule of common sense.

The bill received the strong support of those present and the Legislative Committee composed of President of the Union Iron Works, and Llewellyn of the Llewellyn Works, and Secretary Kennedy of the Baker Iron Works, was employed to join with other employers in a concerted effort to have this bill substituted for the measure.

They are not opposed to an employability bill," said Chairman of the Legislative Committee.

He did not recognize as such, but we are not going to try to quash it."

He then proceeded to gently

bill, and the present J.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—With

Wardens John E. Hoyle of San Quentin and James J. Johnston of Folsom in attendance, the Assembly Committee on Prison and Reformers approved a number of bills to ameliorate prison conditions and give concrete opportunity to reform.

"Our desire for Folsom," said Warden Johnston, "is to make prison life as nearly normal as possible. We want to teach the younger prisoners trades, to build up physically and improve them mentally. The trouble with many of the prisoners is not that they are vicious, but pitifully weak."

To these ends, Warden Johnston, with the concurrence of Warden

Hoyle, urged favorable action on bills providing for wages to prisoners and for a State prison farm, where prisoners could be sent as a reward for good conduct.

The farm is to be used also for a trying-out place for prisoners asking parole.

Assembly Bill No. 1515, by Elie-

as, abolishing the cumulative sentence system, which prevents a prisoner from serving his full sentence if his term is not fully served, was approved as was his bill No. 1516, establishing the indeterminate sentence plan in operation in twenty-one other States. Payment of small wages to inmates of State schools as embodied in

Assembly Bill No. 1517 by Johnstone was recommended.

A bill giving the prison authorities a greatly increased sum for the assistance of paroled and discharged prisoners in finding employment, was turned over to the Ways and Means Committee for action.

THE WISE FOOL.
Most of us know him. He is the man who gives brilliant and sound advice to all others without ever putting any of his own valuable theories into practice for himself.

BIG GAME.
A man pursued a bear into its cave up in the Rocky Mountains and found bear's home lined with silverware. He is not to be blamed if he went away singing that good old California hymn, "It's a Bear."

UPON WHAT MEAT?
When we see Major Alexander and Job Harriman, E. T. Earl and Dr. John R. Hayes sailing serenely under the same red banner we can but question upon what meat do these our Caesars feed that they have grown so thick.

RECIPROCITY.
The general superintendent of the Southern Pacific was enthusiastic about the Imperial Valley. He ought to be, seeing as how Imperial Junction is the third best shipping point on the Southern Pacific line in California.

THE MASQUERADE.
One can understand the fellow who puts on a mask on the night of a fiesta or a carnival ball, but why will so many beautiful souls go through a whole life wearing hideous masks of slovenliness, incompetency and pain?

NOT JEALOUS.
Women in politics have broken all precedents of women in any other line of activity or interest. They can forget social differences and party affiliations any day in the year in order to agree on real issues when the city's welfare is at stake.

EARNING A REST.
Former Judge William A. Cheney intends to take a vacation after thirty years of incessant labor as lawyer and jurist. It must not be taken for granted that Mr. Cheney has had no fun in all of these years. He has had the pleasure of putting his surplus earnings in a beautiful orange ranch and in watching his Hill-street residence property increase in value from the $600 he allowed for it as the settlement of an attorney's fee to about $100,000.

A LIFE WELL SPENT.
It is blessed at this life's close to have those who knew us day by day speak of us as unselfish and as one who sought the good of others. Such a tribute of respect and love is now being paid to Capt. William Faulkner, Pacific Coast manager of Fairbanks, Morse & Co., by the hundreds of men who for many years worked under him. They say of him that he saw the true man in every one of his employees and that he worked to develop this just as hard as he worked for dollars. Surely this was a life worth living.

PROHIBITION SIDEBOARD.
It is to be hoped that President Wilson will not literally repeat the experiences of President Hayes in dealing with the demon rum. When Mr. Hayes firmly banished alcoholic stimulants from family dinners, although not from official dinners, at the White House, the prohibitionists of Washington, in grateful appreciation of his services to the cause of temperance, clubbed together and presented him with a magnificently carved sideboard. The incongruity of the gift with the event it was intended to commemorate did not seem to strike the donors. President Hayes, after using the sideboard for a while as a cuff and collar and cologne bottle receptacle, sold it to a second-hand dealer, and he sold it to a den of gilded vice, and ever since then that sideboard has been living a life of shame.

TAXATION BY ROYALTY.
"If California today received 10 cents a barrel as royalty on oil we would have an annual income in this State of $3,000,000," declared that great statesman, Francis J. Heney, in his argument at Sacramento before a joint legislative committee on the Keboe conservation bill.

But why limit the exaction of a royalty to oil? A similar percentage of exaction on gold produced here would yield $4,000,000, on copper would yield $2,000,000, on cement would yield $1,000,000, and on asphalt, borax and macadam another $1,000,000. These mineral products together would aggregate as much in value as petroleum, and the State has just as much right to exact a 20 per cent. royalty on gold and asphalt produced as it has to exact a royalty on petroleum produced. That is to say it has no such right at all. But why confine the Heney system of taxation by royalties on production to mineral products? Why swat it to the miners and let the farmers escape? A tax of 10 cents per barrel on oil is equivalent to 30 per cent. of its value at the well. A similar tax on California wheat would yield $3,000,000, on barley $3,000,000, on hay $2,500,000 and on potatoes $1,000,000.

With an income of $16,000,000 per annum from the mines and $10,000,000 from the farmers of California the State could afford to support the free hotel system devised by Gates Ajar, and send Lissner and Chatterling Chet to Europe to give and take points with King George and Emperor William on the art of municipal government, and fee Heney liberally as Economic Adviser and Asinine Suggestor-at-Large to Hiram and his Legislature.

KING GEORGE OF GREECE.
King of years and honors, beloved by his people and ranking high in the estimation of the civilized world King George of Greece has gone to his eternal rest. It is fifty years since he ascended the Hellenic throne and, under his rule, Greece advanced steadily to freedom, in prosperity and in power. With her little army of 50,000 men Greece has twice won the right of King George increased strength with Turkey which had an army numbering 725,000. During both contests the Greeks as they marched have sung:

"A word of submissio we breathe not.
The sword we have drawn we will sheathe not,
And we march that the footstep of Mahomet's slaves
May be blotted in blood from our forefathers graves."

For many years scholars and poets, orators and statesmen have dreamed of a rejuvenated Greece, a Greece that should recall the Greece of old when the city of the violet crown counted a Pericles, a Leonidas and an Alcibiades among her statesmen and warriors, a Socrates among her philosophers, a Sophocles among her dramatists, a Homer among her poets, and a Phidias among her sculptors.

The King now dead, did much to bring about a realization of this dream. He aided in a moral and patriotic uplift of his people both by the precepts he taught and the example of his life. He was brave and patient and wise. He was a great and a good man. He aided to advance his nation in the estimation of the people of Europe and America. He will be mourned not only in palaces but in the marts of trade and in humble homes.

Concerning the motives of the assassin who killed him details are yet too meager to determine whether it was the act of a madman as in the case of the murderers of McKinley and Garfield, or the deed of representatives of some political clan.

The world will hope that King Constantine will carry forward the noble work to which his father devoted fifty years of his life, and place Greece once more among the foremost nations of Europe.

AMENDMENT NINE—VOTE "NO."

The argument of our steamed Progressive morning contemporary in favor of the Mayor appointing instead of the people electing three harbor commissioners is that the people, not having either the brains or the honesty possessed, by the Mayor, would be sure to elect weak and corrupt men as commissioners, who would do the bidding of the railroads, while a Mayor chosen by a combination between Earl, Lissner, Darrow and Harriman would put in office harbor commissioners who would be "unawed by influence and unbiassed by gain."

The history of the last few years does not warrant this assumption of the Goo-Goo-Socialist combination. The Goo-Goos who have controlled the improvement or rather non-improvement of the harbor, have procrastinated the work until the city has lost the advantage of having harbor facilities to accommodate the commercial freight we might otherwise have expected to visit us on the completion of the Panama Canal. And experience teaches us that it is much more likely that a commission appointed by a Goo-Goo-Socialist Mayor would sell out to a railroad company than that commissioners elected by the people would do so.

Our steamed contemporary asserts with that arrogance that is born of its exalted opinion of itself (an opinion which few people share) that "the best thinkers are agreed" that a Mayor and Councilmen should be elected, while "ministerial officers should be appointed in order to secure efficiency in the public service."

The weakness in this broken-legged syllogism of our steamed contemporary is that nobody other than an inmate of an asylum for the demented will concede that the proprietor of our steamed contemporary is one of the "best" or even the "second best" "thinkers" in this city. Is there an honest, intelligent voter in Los Angeles who does not believe that he is quite as competent to select an honest and competent board of harbor commissioners as a Mayor who should owe his election to a bargain between Edwin T. Earl and Job Harriman.

If the people want the harbor to be developed and to retain control of it after it is developed, they will vote "yes" on amendment No. 16, and "no" on amendment No. 9.

ABSCUR LAW.
Two bills have been introduced in the Legislature—No. 1615 and Assembly Bill No. 968—called printers' ink bills, introduced by Mr. Morganstern, which are similar in purpose and phrase to a law recently vetoed by Gov. Haines of Maine.

The proposed law disregards the elementary proposition that all common law crimes and many statutory crimes are in the intent. Crimes belong to two classes: "malum in se," a thing that is in itself evil, such as murder, robbery, assault, or larceny, and "malum prohibitum," an act which is wrong only because prohibited by law. In all malum in se acts and in many acts that are malum prohibitum the intent is presumed from the act, and it is for the defendant to purge himself of the criminal intent and not for the government to prove it.

Some acts are made criminal and the perpetrator is subject to punishment even if there was no criminal intent, "such as the liquor law, the pure-food law, the game law and similar instances where the acts are so injurious to the public that public policy requires the citizen to act at his peril."

There is no law to punish an innocent perpetrator of an act not malum in se, when the act is such that felonious intent in its perpetration is in the nature of things impossible.

The "printers' ink law" is an absurdity and an injustice. By it it is proposed to punish a newspaper proprietor who publishes a false or misleading advertisement, even if he did not know whether it was false or true and had no means of ascertaining.

The proposed law provides that any newspaper proprietor who shall publish an advertisement containing a false statement concerning the intrinsic, commercial

Right But Wrong.

"MY PHILOSOPHY."

BY HENRI BERGSON.

"The difficulties in the way of putting the substance of my philosophy into a few brief paragraphs are insuperable," said Prof. Bergson. "If I were to attempt it I should be framing a creed and thus defeat the end sought. The creed is thus the province of religion, not of philosophy."

"The average man is too busy with the duties of his profession, his business or his occupation to give the time to philosophic truths."

"It is not that he has not sufficient brain power, but merely that he has not had the requisite training and has no time to acquire it in the turmoil of modern life."

"To make comprehensive to the average man the principles of philosophy would be even more difficult than to set forth briefly a comprehension of the higher mathematics, chemistry or physics. The philosopher, like the true chemist and physicist, does not concern himself with the practical results of his discoveries and teachings. It is for others to take the truths he enunciates and apply them to the practical affairs of life. And in general I firmly believe that no philosophy which has not some practical application to life is worth while."

ETERNAL LIFE OF THE SOUL.

"After thirty years of original investigation and study I find that in the main the fundamental truth of our western religions is not at variance with my philosophy. That truth predicates the existence of a creative force—God—call it what you will. Theology says that this force is a personal God. I do not pretend to say."

Bergson says that the old conception of the future is all wrong, that the future exists in the present. The future is in something which the vital principle makes exist with its own will and action.

From this is deduced what he terms the world will, which some call God, but it is God, it is a different God from the popular conception, being without omnipotence and omnipotence upward through the world of matter and manifesting itself in individual lives, according to the Bergson philosophy.

"I firmly believe in the survival of the individual after death," continued Prof. Bergson. "I cannot say that this future life will go on forever. Memory, intuition and pure reasoning exist independent of the brain. These things constituting the mind may be termed the soul of man; theology, indeed, so terms them. I have studied this matter for years, and I cannot in a few words give my reasons for believing as I do, but if it will be true that the mind can, call it what it will, be independent of the body working through it, then it follows that this part of us lives after physical death."

"And I further believe that we shall maintain after death our individuality, in other words, our identity. This soul of ours is a part of the great world will, or God, as some term it. Memory forms an important constituent of the mind; and why, if this is apart and distinct from the physical, should it perish with the body? It is against all logic that it should, and is, furthermore, against scientific truth, which I believe to have been established. 'Souls are nothing else than the divine ripples to which the great river of life divides itself, flowing through the body of humanity. The movement of the stream is distinct from the river bed, although it must adopt its winding course. Consciousness is distinct from the organism it animates, although it must undergo its vicissitudes."

"Marriage, as it exists, is best for the spring will soon be here; the snow will disappear; the hemis will cluck, the colts will buck, as will the joyous steer. How sweet an April morn!" The whole world seems reborn; and ancient men wait again and laugh their years to scorn. And grave and sober dancemen take their quilting frames, and cut up rough play blinds and kindred cheerful games. The pastores hate to preach; the teachers hate to teach; they'd like to play baseball all day, or on the bleachers bleach. The lawyer tires of law; the windmills rest his jaw; they'd fain forget the toll and sweat, and play among the straw. The spring's the time for play; let's put our work away, with joyous spurs kick up our heels, e'en though we're old and gray. You see old Dobbins trot around the barnyard lot, with flashing eye and tail on high, his burdens all forgot. You see the muley cow that's old and feeble now, turn somersaults and prance and waltz, and stand upon her feet. The rooster, old is he, and crippled as can be, yet on his toes he stands and crows "My country, 'Tis of Thee." Shall we inspired goats have less style than the brutes? Oh, let us rise and fill the skies with echoing toots-toots.

"printers' ink bills" are perfectly legitimate coming from a private citizen, require careful siftiing before being placed on record as the diplomatic views of an important office holder. Next to the President, his Secretary of State occupies the most conspicuous position of any public man. International relations demand the exercise of ceaseless self-restraint on the part of any leading statesman whose slightest utterance may be cabled to all quarters of the globe.

"American men trust their wives on principle. Frenchmen distrust theirs on principle. Neither is right. They should regard them as a nervous organization capable of great possibilities for either good or bad."

Mrs. Marie Goethius Van Saanen, whom in Paris they call "the brilliant American," voiced these views Wednesday. She is the wife of a famous Romanian architect, and is on one of her frequent and flying trips to her native country.

"If women would train their husbands to understand their delicately poised nervous systems," she said, "there would be less domestic jarring and fewer divorces. Men generally know nerves only as a name. We should make their concept more specific. If I answer my husband rather sharply I always say to him immediately after, 'Never mind, dear, it wasn't I who spoke, it was the troublesome nerves.'"

"San Diego rejoiceth.

(San Diego Union) It wouldn't be so chemically pure or "abominably dirty" within the scope of its own civic jurisdiction; but unfortunately the Puritans of Los Angeles are trying to impose their personal ideas of morality and purity upon the commonwealth. Most of the freak legislation now stewing in the law not at Sacramento originated in Los Angeles. All the busbody legislation now contemplated for the plauding of the State is being pushed by the solid Los Angeles delegation at the behest of the Dorcas societies and the women's clubs of the holy city. And as Mayday described the purpose of the Puritanical Puritans, this Los Angeles legislation is not to save the bear from the agony of the beating, but to deprive the baiters of the pleasure of their sport. Los Angeles hates to see anybody enjoying anything which the Puritans of that town cannot find pleasure in. Still, these pious villagers are very sensitive concerning what other people think of them and say about them. Like all narrow-spirited, self-righteous ruralites whose favorite hymn is "Near, My God, to Thee" and whose daily prayer is a thanksgiving that they are better and holier than their neighbors, the saints of Los Angeles are exceedingly censorious of the shortcomings of other human beings, notwithstanding that they have incorporated the Sennet on the Most into their city ordinances and spread the epistles of St. Paul on the principles of their town trustees, they are never willing to turn their own cheek after they have swatted some weaker brother whom they caught wallowing in iniquity. And especially have they delighted to lie about San Diego; whereas we are much pleased that Writer Wright has told the truth about Los Angeles, and brutalized it even from Penobscot to Chula Vista for the edification and entertainment of the just and unjust, from Snohomish to Pensacola Bay.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Pen Points: By the Staff

Vice-President Thomas Riley March has put on the "blinders."

Something to worry about: The population of London is decreasing.

Leave it to Billy McCombs to not break a precedent by refusing to accept a fit office.

It is up to the Wilson administration to reduce the high cost of Easter bonnets. But will it?

The receipts of apples locally continue to be large. This includes even the most and lowly Ben Davis.

Hats off to Capt. Roald Amundsen, a son of the Norse Vikings. He, too, has taken the measure of old Dock Cook.

A saunter along the shady side of Broadway these days indicates that there is to be a large. This includes even the most and lowly Ben Davis.

Down in Mexico the rebels are taking out life insurance policies by promising allegiance to the new administration.

With benches in the House, there will be an excellent opportunity for Congressmen to go to sleep during dreary debates.

But Vincent Astor would hardly be a farmer if he had to go out and pour hot water into the pump every frosty morning.

The Mayoralty candidate in San Bernardino has a bright chance of election. He has two nominations and is going into a third.

Secretary Bryan's saddle horse, Rex, has reached Washington. Is this the animal that threw the colonel in the Spanish-American War?

President Wilson inveighs against the reign of "dollar diplomacy." He probably is enamored of the "shirt-sleeve" sort used by Secretary Bryan.

It is proposed to make "On the Banks of the Wabash" the State song of Indiana. It is a matter of taste for which Indians alone will be responsible.

This is Holy Week, but the sashists and ashed merchants report no special run on their goods. The purple and the lime will be good form after Sunday.

Some folks are continually objecting to the high prices charged at hotels, forgetting that the landlords are compelled to live there all the time. Isn't it worth money?

According to the trade circulars we note that the manufacture of "real Swiss watches" in this country far surpasses the industry in the mountain republic. We strive to please.

Dr. Wiley, who is soon to lecture in Los Angeles, says that a girl should not be permitted to flirt until she has learned how to cook—and that ought to boost things with The Times' Cooking School.

A woman dropped a handbag containing $100 the other day, but the average handbag has nothing more important than a powder rag, a few hairpins, a recipe for making pear jelly and a streetcar ticket.

Referring to the hub-bub caused by the indiscreet statements of Secretary Bryan in regard to English affairs, we still believe that he is the most eminent statesman that the Chautauqua circuit has produced.

The death of King George of Greece was due to the murderous hand of a Sicilian and a Greek, too. But Constantine will take up the harness of his aged father and preserve the glorious history of the Greek people.

Of course, with the election of members of the City Council at large it could not be arranged in the back-office of the Express, with Meyer Lissner in the role of boss. That would be much more satisfactory to the Earl-Lissner ring.

Young Vincent Astor is offering to an improved grade of oats for seed to the farmers adjoining his estate at $1.50 a bushel. Probably marked down from a higher figure, to enable him to make such ends meet.

With nothing else to talk about, the regulators of the appetites of the world are discussing whether a visitor to the San Francisco Fair shall be able to get something stronger than soda pop on the ground in 1918.

Yesterday was the hundred anniversary of the birthday of David Livingstone, African explorer and missionary. The older residents of Los Angeles remember when his body was borne from the coast of the Dark Continent to the coast of California, from there carried to Westminster Abbey. It was in 1873.

THE MAN OF PALESTINE. Both in the ancient schoolman's home and sacred writ divine. We seek in vain for evermore. The Man of Palestine.

Yet we may find him any day. Upon the city street; He looks on us through suffering And walks with weary feet.

He's in all human hearts that share Another's grief and pain. For in each sympathetic soul The Christ is born again.

Ah! we shall find him when we seek Him in our brother man. Where he's been slowly toiling up Since human life began.

When we forsake our past and greed This Man of Palestine Will teach us all his simple creed: "The human is divine!" —Charles Edward Stowe in "M. E. Stowe."

Yesterday at The Times School of Domestic Science

Conducted by Mrs. Bertha Haffner-Ginger

Cooking as a Fine Art. FOR WOMEN HOMEKEEPERS.

FASCINATING TALK ON A FASCINATING ART.

Open House and Free Lessons Three Days in the Week, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, in Afternoon. Second Floor New "Times" Building.

Not since The Times School of Domestic Science opened, more than two weeks ago, has there been such a gain in time at the school and during the day as yesterday afternoon when the auditorium was filled with an eager, enthusiastic crowd.

Were the brides there to compete for that prize roast? Well, they certainly were, one of "em" won a fine Mrs. Mrs. A. J. Patrick, who has been married just three weeks. And the prize she won? It was what E. W. Hall of Young's Market, who represented that concern, had for display all the choice cuts of meat on display, called "crown roast of lamb"—and it looked just like a crown—decorated with paper frills and flowers, and the top adorned with a lovely bird, all done in the snow-white fat of the roast. That "crown roast" surely was royal, for contained, among other things, no less than fourteen delicious chops, besides steaks and other choice cuts, the case value exceeded $100.

The cook lady and the market's representative decided that each and every bride should get a prize and so chose the most courageous and those were handed out in the midst of laughter and applause.

It happened that three of the brides had each been married four months, triplets, excepting that the two who were the trio lined up to claim their prizes. It further developed that two of them had been married exactly the same number of months and days, and the third had to be asked to hazard a determination which should have first choice. One plighted her troth at the altar at 7 o'clock in the evening and the other at 8, and the settling down.

Then again, two of the brides had been married five months. "Twins," shrieked the cook lady, as the pair came down the aisle to claim their prizes.

"Oh, I'm so glad I won this lovely prime roast," exclaimed Mrs. George Spangler-Peterson, who was one of the triplets. "I have a kitchenette, and I can cook it beautifully." Mrs. Spangler and her husband came out here on their wedding tour immediately after their marriage in Pasadena, last Saturday.

Mrs. Don Leigh, a bride of six months, won a fine fat chicken as her prize. Other brides were Mrs. E. C. Spangler, Mrs. A. J. Patrick, Mrs. H. A. Wistert, Mrs. J. A. H. Wilson, Mrs. John Proewig of Hollywood.

Mrs. G. L. Bailey of Alhambra held the record for the longest period of wedded life, nearly forty-eight years.

"I have a large audience waiting by to come to the Pasadena-Pacific Exposition," she said as she came forward amid cheers to claim her award.

"Now you brides may have thought," said Mrs. Haffner-Ginger, as she presented the prizes, "that you were going to get some of these cook meat dishes that I have prepared for you. Well, you can't. If you don't know how to cook, you should join the brides' class in the school kitchen."

Butcher There to Tell 'Em.

Butcher there to tell 'em was a grand finale to the delightful lecture and demonstration that preceded it. When the curtains were drawn aside at 2:30 such a display of meats, arranged in the most inviting manner, as were brought to view.

Immediately Mrs. Haffner-Ginger appeared bearing in her hands the prize crown roast, and followed by a fine, fat butcher—E. W. Hall, clad in immaculate white from head to foot and with a picturesque white apron over his shoulders, who told the women all about selecting meats—where the choice cuts are and where the cheap, and where the most expensive women certainly did keep him busy. The questions they got! It is safe to venture that men in Los Angeles meat markets will have to mind their p's and q's and be perfectly prepared to answer when women are thoroughly instructed by this expert just exactly all about everything in the meat line from a Mulligan stew to a porterhouse, or Delmonico steak.

Blowing off Steam. To add to the gaiety of the occasion Mrs. Haffner-Ginger was experimenting with a new-fangled steam cooker—a beautiful aluminum vessel with a pressure gauge and a safety valve that let off the steam automatically. She cooked an old hen, which she stov'd at 10, which would be both palatable, economical and wholesome, and when it was done was passed about on platters to be sampled the audience went several steps further and declared it to be perfectly delicious.

But that steam cooker had a way of letting off steam that was disturbing and nerve-racking—till you got used to it. Right in the middle of the demonstration, the pressure gauge exploded, and the cook lady—x-act-o—would go to that steam gauge, and everybody would jump, and the cook lady would simply rise in her shoes.

In this a delightful steam cooker, though—after you get used to its

BIG WATER POLO GAME AT ATHLETIC CLUB TONIGHT.

THE new water-polo game, which is so unlike the old style as to be played for the first time in Southern California tonight in the huge plunge of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, when Los Angeles High School and Venice High are to clash in the opening game of the new Los Angeles County High School Water Polo League.

Under the new rules water polo promises to be the most thrilling and spectacular of indoor sports. The old rough-house game has been sent to the discard and in its place one finds a game which has all the spectacular passing of basketball, the excitement of football and the fast action which comes through skillful swimming.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club already has a fine team and as soon as the new rules are thoroughly learned some exciting contests will be played, which will be open to the general public, but by way of introducing the new sport the game tonight is to be free admission. The aquatic events will also be pulled off Thursday being the regular ladies' night of the club.

The frame of the new rules is the requirement that the ball, instead of being of tennis-ball size, shall be

NEW BILLIARD TROPHY FOR COAST CHAMPION.

Los Angeles is to be the scene of a tournament for the pocket billiard championship of the Pacific Coast, for which the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company is to offer a trophy to be awarded to the winner.

No Coast title has been regularly established, nor has any emblem of the title been provided or held, according to a dispatch received yesterday from the firm.

For the purpose of establishing an authentic title and challenge trophy, Alfred E. Mackenzie announces a Coast championship tournament, to commence Monday, March 21, for which entries are to close Saturday, March 29.

The contest is open to all players Coast.

Twenty-five inches, or basketball size, and it must be kept in motion, instead of the slow, dead ball from goal to goal as in the old game.

Holding of any kind is barred, and the brutality which marked the old style of water polo is impossible in the new sport.

Both contests will be played at the Majestic Billiard Academy, No. 437 South Hill street.

Bert Rhines, former champion of Ohio, who has been in California five months, and who has decided to reside here until his health is re-established, and George Brooks, who has never been known to keep out of a fray which he could reach.

This tournament is designed to meet every requirement regarding regulations and perfection of record.

The two started out on even terms. Lord, being a veteran, required more time to get into playing condition. Zeider was held back by illness, but has shown his old-time speed. He is determined to make the place.

He says it's the only benefit on the team he can play to advantage, and that it is just like sitting in a rocking chair to play third. Lord admits he did not show well last year, but is coming into his own again. Both are fast on the paths. Zeider runs the edge. Lord hits stronger. Both are good fielders and throwers.

One of the biggest achievements of Kid Gleason is in making Ping Pong and Children's former Western League pitcher, take a weight. Gleason made them run and chase flies.

who have resided on the Coast for more than three months. Entry fees of $50 each will go toward providing at least two prizes in addition to the trophy.

Every contestant will play one game each day until the contest is finished. Games will be played at the Majestic Billiard Academy, No. 437 South Hill street.

LONDON-ARIZONA COPPER COMPANY

Now Shipping

We believe this Company will become a large dividend payer, that the stock will be held for the dividends, and that it will become an attractive investment security, as has been the case with many other copper stocks.
